

Dolly Varden ( On30 )

Dolly Varden Mines Railway is a scale of 1:48, located at the town of Alice Arm, British Columbia. Back in around 1900, some mining prospects were staked near the town after discovery of silver. Those stakes were only about 4 miles from the town because the terrain of the area was a bit "difficult". A raging icy Kitsault River, vertical cliffs, thick forests, freezing winters, permanent ice fields...it wasn't no resort town! In 1910 however, a group of prospectors ventured up the valley in search of riches. 18 miles up the mountain they discovered a rich strain of silver ore, and so claimed the site of the Dolly Varden Mines.

The layout measured in at just over 28' long, built in 5 sections, with a small water extension at the front of the wharf.
